has a daughter that no other Female College in Kentucky affords. It has just closed one of the most successful seasons in its history. It is the only Female School in the state that keeps a faculty composed of graduates of the University of Michigan, (Ann Arbor), Columbia University, (New York City), Vanderbilt University and others of the world's best schools with records as instructive as any.

Bloody Breathless Fearful Fate.

James Cockrell, who was shot down from the court house in Jackson, Mo. on July 21, died at the Good Samaritan Hospital at Lexington, Tuesday. Mr. Cockrell had been in Winchester for several weeks, but returned on the morning train Monday, to make arrangements for leaving there permanently. He had warnings that he would be killed. McKinley Cockrell, a brother of the dead man, said today that he would not attempt to live in Jackson in the future. He said he was warned to leave the town about six weeks ago, and that he did so. The warning came from his uncle, Samuel Jett, of Winchester, who was told that McKinley "was going with the wrong gang and had better get out." Young Cockrell also declared that his side had made every effort for peace, but it seemed without result. Some other killing of minor importance occurred in the county Saturday night. John Oaks shot Benton Blanton. Riley Coldiron was killed. Sunday night South Strong shot John Keith. These shootings had nothing to do with the Harris-Cockrell feud. Monday night Will Jett's liquor house at Jackson was burned.

"A special dispatch from that place says: No one here thinks that the trouble has ended. Members of the Cockrell faction have stated to friends that the trouble was just beginning, and a local physician was told by one of them that he would have his surgical instruments ready in his satchel to answer a call which would be made upon his services within the next few days."

We Believe He will do it too. Editor W. P. Walton, of the Lexington Democrat, notifies his enemies that he and the Democrat are there to stay notwithstanding their attempt to injure and ruin him out of town. He says: "The Democrat is here to stay and by the eternal it will stay to preach Democratic doctrines, to expose corruption in high places and to strike on the head every scoundrel, big or little, who strays out of the straight and narrow path."

Per Capita Reduced. State Superintendent of Public Instruction McChesney has declared the school per capita for the operation of the common schools in Kentucky for the current year to be $2.32. This is based on a school census of 728,751 children and an estimate of $1,730,221.58 income. The per capita figure is a decrease from last year of eighteen cents.

No Chance for President. Henry Watterson, who is in California, in an interview told why he would not be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President, and tacitly admitted that he would consider running for Governor of Kentucky. In the course of an interview he said: "I am on record to the opinion that no man who ever wore a Confederate uniform or who was ever identified with the Confederacy could be elected President of the United States or will be nominated."

The flood situation on the Mississippi above St. Louis has not a parallel in the history of that section of the river. The loss in Iowa, Missouri and Illinois points is estimated at $5,000,000. There was every prospect of their reaching $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 more when the high water reached the lower stretches of the river. The largest corn and wheat crops ever ready for harvest in the district were submerged and ruined.

What One Man Thinks of the Boy.

A working boys' branch of the Y. M. C. A. has been made possible at New Haven, Conn., by Mr. Edwin Bancroft Foote, who gives $25,000. It is conditional upon raising an additional $75,000, which was raised. Mr. Foote said: "I do not anticipate any startling or immediate results from this enterprise, but if one boy every month is saved and helped to a good and useful life, I shall feel that the money has been well invested."

Cost Him a Hand.

Capt. J. N. McClannahan, a prominent politician of Corydon, and ex-Grand Master of the Masonic Order of Iowa, has lost his right hand from the effects of a hand-shake with a friend. The grip received was so hard that several of the small bones were broken and afterward caused a cancerous growth. Amputation became necessary.

His Skull Fractured.

A telephone communication from Lee City to Campton, said that on Tuesday, John Patrick, of that place, was struck in the head with an ax handle by Clay Rose, and was not expected to live.

Remains of a Mastodon.

Workmen in a gravel pit two miles of Dallas, Tex., have unearthed the remains of a mastodon. The jaw bones were in perfect shape and eight feet in length, but crumbled when exposed to the air. The teeth remain perfect. The molars are fourteen and a half inches long and seven and a half wide and weigh fifteen pounds.

Jett's Store Burned.

The wholesale whiskey store of William Jett, was burned Monday night, July 21, at Jackson by incendiaries. Jett is a relative of Curtis Jett, with whom James Cockrell, who died at Lexington Tuesday, got into the shooting affray in the Arlington Hotel. The burning of the store puts another alarming phase on the feud relations.

Accidentally Killed With a Fo-bert Rifle. At Paducah, Mrs. Sol C. Vaughan aged sixty four, one of the wealthiest and most prominent women of Paducah, was shot accidentally with a fo-bert rifle by her grandson, Vaughan Dabney, aged thirteen. She lived but a short time.

Boer Generals Going to Europe.

PRETORIA, July 22.—Gen. Botha and DeLaurey, with their secretaries, have left for Europe. Gen. DeWet will accompany them on the journey to the coast.

Cholera in Manchuria.

It is officially announced that cholera is raging at Mukden, Manchuria. There were 757 cases between July 8 and July 14, and 81 Russians and 363 Chinese died from the disease.

Death Sentence Commuted.

President Roosevelt has commuted to dishonorable discharge and fifteen years' imprisonment the death sentence of Private Guy Stevenson, of Company M, Ninth Cavalry. He was convicted by court martial in Samar, Philippine Islands, of rape.

It is stated by Lexington politicians at the capital that the Hon. Charles J. Bronston, of that city, is contemplating becoming a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the State Senate from Fayette county to succeed J. Emory Allen. Mr. Bronston preceded Allen in this body and represented his district in an able manner.

LAND, STOCK AND CROP ITEMS.

The crop bulletin issued last week for the week ending July 21 stated that the recent rains were a great benefit to the crops, as the ground had become very dry in many localities. Wheat threshing is about completed. It is a little more than half an average crop, and the quality is much better than was anticipated. Corn is in fine condition, and promises a fine yield.

Tobacco is doing well in the central and north central portions of the State, though it is not making satisfactory growth in the southern and western counties.

There is a good crop of oats, most of which have been harvested. Hay cutting is about over, and a fair crop is reported.

There will be a light crop of apples, as they are falling badly. The peach crop is almost a failure, and blackberries are scarce.

In the southern and western counties gardens have suffered from drought but are in fine condition in the north and east.

Irish potatoes are doing well. Farm work is well up.

Plymouth rock chickens are the especial hobby of Wm. T. Simpson, vice-President of the American Rolling Company, who is taking steps to erect the largest henry in Southern Indiana at his summer home, four miles from Dupont.

He has contracted for over $2,000,000 eggs at a cost of about $18,000, which he will place in his incubators. The henry will be 200 feet by 33 feet, and will cost $800. Plymouth Rocks are esteemed the most edible broilers, and Simpson expects to have 5,000 on the market by Feb. 1.

The first bale of new cotton of the season of 1902-03 was received at Savannah, Ga., July 22, and sold for eleven cents per pound.

The Bulgarian Minister of Commerce and Agriculture has forbidden the importation of American grape vines.

Mrs. Sallie J. Kinkead, manager of a hotel at Seebree, has filed suit in the Webster Circuit Court for $50,000 damages against John R. Lambert, who is Circuit Clerk of Henderson county, was camping out near Seebree and ordered a jug of whiskey shipped to Mrs. Kinkead's hotel. Mrs. Kinkead paid the charges, smashed the jug and then sued Mr. Lambert for damages.

In Clark, Lee S. Baldwin was elected Chairman of the Democratic County Committee, to succeed Judge J. M. Benton, resigned.

Death in The Philippines.

Major James Parker, of the Adjutant General's Office, has compiled statistics showing that there were 2,561 engagements between the American troops and the Filipinos between February 4, 1899, and April 30, 1902. The percentage of killed and wounded Americans to the strength of the army is 9.7. Disease carried off forty-seven officers and 2,535 enlisted men.

Judge T. J. Nunn, of Hopkins county, was nominated for Appellate Judge by the First District Democratic convention at Paducah Wednesday. The nomination was made on the sixty-second ballot, Judge White surprising the Cook Robbins-Dorsey combination by throwing his votes to Judge Nunn.

The cost of running the city government of Louisville for the fiscal year just closing is $1,495,205.71.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Importance of Properly Cooking Vegetables.

Doctors and scientists will tell you that health and long life depend more on a proper diet, properly prepared, than upon anything else.

Scientific decisions now seem to lean to the side of the vegetarians. Life insurance companies are reducing rates to vegetarians, and it is a well known fact that heavy meat eaters are afflicted with rheumatism, gout and kindred ills. One reason the American people are so given to meat eating is the indolent cooking of vegetables. The vegetables sent to the table are often a tasteless, watery mess, unpalatable and unsightly.

Here are a few simple rules for the scientific cooking of vegetables, based on the chemical changes that take place.

All vegetables should go over the fire in boiling water. There is no single exception to the rule. If you put them over the fire in cold water, the water will contain their nutrition when cooked, and the vegetables will be insipid and tasteless.

If vegetables are uncovered when cooking there will be no odor through the house. Even cabbage, onions, turnips and other vegetable with a perfumery factory attached will be perfectly harmless if cooked in an uncovered vessel just at or below the boiling point.

All vegetables that grow underground should be cooked in unsalted water.

All green vegetables—that is, those growing on top of the ground, preserve their color better in salted water.

THE PRESS—
THE MERCHANTS.

A few weeks ago the editor of the Gazette discussed impassionately and well the relation of these two industries and if in this article we do no more than to emphasize his thoughts we have accomplished a good purpose. It was one of our experienced, close observing and successful business men, Mr. L. T. Chiles, in a talk before the men's club, of this city, who said, "Every business, I care not how small, should have a card in our city papers, for the reason that a stranger may know what enterprises we have, the point was this, as it now is the visitor reader would from the advertisements seen in our paper conclude we had only a village here, for taking out only a few dozen the papers would be blank as to advertisements.

How many people know we have jobbers here in dry goods, in groceries, manufacturers, of shoes, of clothing, of carriages, of wagons, that we have machine shops, wool mills, flour mills, planing mills, florists, poultry yards, banks, real estate agencies, insurance, etc. The stranger has but one way to measure a city, and that is by what he sees in the paper. Only a short time ago a gentleman was here to locate, he was impressed with the business stir but located elsewhere because he failed to have knowledge of our school facilities. Every school should be represented in the county paper by a cut of the building and a statement giving curriculum in full. Another asked for a copy of the county paper, because he desired to locate in a business town. It was an educator of great learning and a fine reputation as a teacher, but business did not look flourishing as he scanned the columns of the paper, and he thought Mt. Sterling a village on a hill, perched for the want of patronage and he moved on. Our losses are countless for the reason that our business men fail to press their interests. The expenditure to advertise our town would make the newspaper the more prosperous, of course it would, and the advertising would be of untold value to the advertiser.

As labor and capital are inseparable, so are the press and the business interests of the country. Kill capital and your laborer must perish; wipe out your means of communication and both capital and labor are paralyzed. Again the press must talk our advantages; it must oppose every opposing argument, and to do this the business men must be willing to co-operate.

WATER FOR THE CEMETERY.

Why is it that the managers of Machpelah Cemetery do not have water put in the cemetery? Such an addition would be appreciated by the lot owners and the many who visit this beautiful and sacred resting place of their dead. The main has been placed according to contract, but does not extend to the limits of the cemetery.

We are informed by an official of the Mt. Sterling Water Light and Ice Company that his company has promised to donate for a period of five years all water that can be used provided the cemetery company would go to the expense of placing the necessary pipe leading from the main either on the Owingsville or Spencer pike to the desired location of hydrants in the grounds.

This offer is certainly generous on the part of the water company. They are under no obligations to give free water. We desire to express our appreciation of their kindness. What more could the cemetery company expect? If a small pipe 3/4 or 1 inch would be sufficiently large, the expense would not be very great. If a larger pipe is necessary let that be put in.

Carrying water in jugs and bottles should be a thing of the past. We hope arrangements will be made at once for water.

BRYAN POPULAR.

A special from Augusta, Maine, of July 25, says:

"The coming of William J. Bryan, who addressed a large Democratic meeting here this afternoon previous to going to Bangor, has added interest to the State Campaign, which already gives promise of being the liveliest the Pine Tree State has seen in many years.

This interest will be further increased by the visit next month of President Roosevelt, who has accepted an invitation to speak at the Eastern Maine State Fair at Bangor. The Republicans are conducting their campaign with a view to holding their majority up to the usual figures, while the Democrats are working strenuously with the hope of cutting the Republican majority down enough to have some effect on the elections in other States. The Maine election takes place in September, two months before the balloting in other States."

The enthusiasm occasioned by a visit from the great leader of the Democratic forces is evidence of live issues and that the people who are supposed to figure in the approval of measures are dissatisfied with the drift of things and are willing to consider a suggested remedy.

OUR CANDIDATE.

Mr. F. A. Hopkins is our candidate for Congress. He is a live wire and will make an active campaign. For a Republican to contend with him hoping to do more than hold the party together would be foolishness. He will get the full party vote and largely to the rise.

The meeting at West Liberty showed party union and strength in the Tenth.

Quite a number of men would have been better off this week had the police locked them up last week for drunkenness.

A WARNING.

There is a law against selling intoxicants to inebriates. Venders of liquor should be reminded of it and if they persist in the violation of this law then it should be enforced. This fine is $50 for each offense. So long as the people permit the licensing of saloons we believe in protecting their business exactly as others. The law against selling to inebriates goes farther than this: if warned he is liable for damages to the dependent ones. We would have venders consider this law and the authorities to know it is not a dead statute.

Republican Conventions in the Ninth District.

County conventions were held by the Republicans of the Ninth district Saturday to select delegates to the district convention at Mayville August 14 to nominate a candidate for Congress. There was little interest in the meetings.

Greene county instructed for Dr. A. S. Brady.

Carter County sent unopposed delegates. The majority of the delegates who will attend are for Senator and Cox will control by unit rule.

Fleming County did not instruct. Bath County instructs its vote for O. F. Byron, formerly of Owingsville, but now of Ashland.

The Rev. Thomas N. Arnold of Franklin county announced as a candidate for State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

HOPKINS WINS

Gets The Nomination For Congress From The Tenth District on Third Ballot.

CONGRESSMAN WHITE WITHDREW.

The Congressional convention met at West Liberty on Thursday. The temporary organization was effected by electing F. E. Fogg, of West Liberty, chairman over C. B. Hill, of Frankfort, secretary of state, by a vote of 62 to 37, and John Gardner secretary over Richard Holland by the same vote.

F. A. Hopkins was nominated by the Democratic convention on the third ballot. Congressman White withdrew from the race as soon as the temporary organization was effected, stating that he saw the way the wind was blowing and did not wish to be in the way.

On the first ballot for the nomination for congressman, Hopkins received 14 votes, Davis 42 and Lawson 13. On the second ballot the vote stood Hopkins 42, Davis 44 and Lawson 13. On the third ballot several counties fell into line for Hopkins and he received 61 votes.

The Democratic Committee of the Fourteenth District has declared Circuit Judge James E. Cantrell and Commonwealth Attorney Robert H. Franklin to be the party nominees for re-election.

O'Rear, is visiting his uncle, Clarence Hazelrig, at Ford. Mrs. John Christopher was knocked down by a bucking mule at the Richmond fair and sustained several injuries. Last Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. James Delaney, on Lexington avenue, Misses Alice Frisby and Katie Mae Gorman, of Mt. Sterling, entertained a number of young people of this city. One of the most fearful wind and rainstorms that has ever visited this vicinity passed over last week. Great damage was done to property and crops. On one lot fifty trees were uprooted. Tobacco is ruined, corn and hemp also badly damaged. In speaking of the Democratic Congressional County Convention on the 19th we are told: Lee S. Baldwin, chairman, called the convention to order. J. F. Winn and S. W. Purley were put in nomination for Chairman. It was understood that Mr. Winn was for White and Mr. Purley for Hopkins. On a line up and count Winn got 660 votes and Purley 438. It was an expensive convention. The Hopkins leaders were fooled. They thought White would not spend his money. There was plenty to drink for all who wanted it, and most of them wanted it. The ex-Confederates were out in full force and all for White. It was a countryman's convention. The leaders who live in town were not considered. Those who have been in the habit of manipulating things among advisors. None of them are delegates. When the importance of the county is considered the prices were not unreasonable. The white ribbon worn by the White supporters was not an evidence that they belonged to a temperance society. Each side says the other spent lots of money. Bainbridge's 5c and 10c Store is on West Main Street adjoining the Adams Express office. Every article they handle is useful and goes at the above prices 5c and 10c. You don't know the valuable articles that can be bought at 5c and 10c each.

Liliputian Horses

An interesting exhibition on the Forum at the Incorporated De Kreko Bros. Roman Carnival at the Lexington Elks Fair, August 11 to 16 inclusive, is where the Liliputian horses hold their continual receptions. Ladies and children delight to watch the seemingly proud actions of these miniature editions of the "Pride of Kentucky." Kentuckyans, with their hereditary love for the noble animal, will have a theme for conversation in after years, when they look upon a pair of fully matured horses, one three years and a half and the other four years old, standing twenty-one and a half inches and twenty-two inches respectively, and the combined weight of the two scarcely ninety pounds. A competent lecturer explains the traits and characteristics of the little animals, commenting also on their pedigrees. This show will occupy a prominent place on the Forum at the Fair grounds.

A REVENGEFUL MONKEY.

Tries to Kill Man Toward Whom He Has Taken Strong Dislike.

"Monkeys have their likes and dislikes, just like men," said a young man who lives uptown to a New Orleans Times-Democrat writer, "and I know it because of my recent experience at my boarding house. The lady who runs the house has a pet of this kind. He is an old looking fellow. He looks like he might have come down from prehistoric times. We call him Jo, and some of the boarders have a great deal of fun out of the old fellow. But Jo, for some reason, has taken a violent dislike for me, and he does not fail to show it whenever I get in his presence. His face is a perfect picture of terror when I enter the house, and I have been inclined to tease him since observing that he did not like me. This, of course, has aggravated the situation. His dislike has developed into a sort of revengeful hatred, and he has shown a disposition to do me bodily harm. I believe he would slay me if he could, and my experience with him during the past few days has convinced me that I will have to keep an eye on Jo or get hurt. I did not pay much attention to his grimaces, his ferocious jabbering and things of that sort. I knew he did not like me from these antics, but I did not think his dislike was as violent as it is. A few days ago, when I entered that portion of the house where Jo chained, he grabbed a heavy glass tumbler and threw it at me with fearful force. It missed my head by an inch and broke into a hundred pieces against the wall. I made a few conciliatory remarks, but Jo did not take kindly to my advances. It was several days later when I threw a newspaper at Jo in a joking way. It threw him into a fit of rage almost instantly, but he exercised a bit of cunning which I did not think was in him. He held on to the newspaper with one paw and he held it so that it would conceal his other arm and paw. I had no idea what Jo was doing until he hurled a big lump of coal at me. He missed me again, and I got out of his range as soon as possible. Since then I have had nothing to do with Jo, and in the future I will give him a wide berth. I do not care to be killed by a monkey, and I am satisfied that Jo would kill me if he could. He has murdered his heart, so far as I am concerned, and he has proved the fact by his conduct toward me during the last few weeks."

Flowers at Funerals.

"The clause 'please omit flowers' so often seen in funeral notices doesn't mean such a loss to us as you might suppose," says a florist. "I used to be that all the flowers received at a funeral were sent to the cemetery and placed upon the grave to wither. A great many people object to this procedure as a sinful waste, and these are the people who advertise 'Please omit flowers.' But the flowers are seldom really omitted. Some people don't see the announcement, or, if they do, they don't heed it. The flowers come, just the same. In such cases the blossoms are usually given away, after the funeral services, to some hospital or institution where they contribute to the happiness of the living."—Philadelphia Record.

FRAMING A SPECIALTY.

AN ODD STREET SHOW.

A Bengal Tiger Put Upon Free Exhibition in City of India.

A sketch made on the streets of a town in the province of Bengal, India, shows a method somewhat unusual, even in that country, by which a tiger may be put on public exhibition. Instead of being confined in a zoo or menagerie, where the people are required to visit him and pay a regular price of admission, the tiger is carried around in the towns, where everybody can see him and pay or not, as they please. The native owner collects the small coin that people choose to pay, while his assistant attends to the team.

This tiger was captured when a cub, and when he was half grown or more, a strap of heavy leather was fastened around his neck and another around his flanks. For greater security these two straps are connected by a lighter one—running along the animal's back. Firmly attached to the neck strap, or yoke, are two stout iron chains, fastened to the opposite ends of the platform-frame. Straps could not safely take the place of these iron chains, for the tiger's sharp teeth would soon gnaw through the leather and set him at liberty. To the hinder strap, or belt, are fastened two straps, each firmly looped to the platform-frame. Thus the powerful beast is firmly held captive, and at the same time is left sufficiently free in his motions to stand or crouch.

The platform is framed on two long, stout bamboo poles, which serve also as shafts for the small Indian ox which drags the cart. An ox not thoroughly trained would be in mortal terror of his load. The platform is mounted on two rough, heavy cart wheels such as are used in India, and the outfit is complete.

We can imagine the timid curiosity with which the women and especially the children in the streets of a town, or along the country road, would gaze at their strange visitor. They have heard many a story of the slaying of human beings by the dreaded "man-eater" of the jungle, and perhaps one of their own number has fallen a victim. The man-eater is usually an older tiger, whose strength is failing and whose teeth have partly lost their sharpness. Such a beast finds it easier to lurk in the vicinity of settlements and to pick up an occasional man, woman, or child, than to run down wild cattle.

The largest, fiercest, and most brightly colored tigers are found in the province of Bengal, near the mouths of the Ganges river, and not far from Calcutta. A full-grown Bengal tiger sometimes measures ten feet from nose to tip of tail. Such a monster makes no more account of springing upon a man than a cat does of seizing a mouse. He surpasses the lion in strength and ferocity, and has no rival among beasts of prey except the grizzly bear and the recently discovered giant bear of Alaska.—Dr. Eugene Murray-Aron, in St. Nicholas.

ORIGIN OF WEDDING-RING.

Ascetics Relieved a Special Nerve Pain from Ring-Finger to Heart.

The wedding ring is the subject of quaint historical facts and endless superstitions. It was probably chosen as the symbol of marriage more for convenience than anything else. It is supposed to be a symbol of unbroken love and of power, and to carry special curative values with it. The old good luck saying about it is: "As your wedding ring wears, your cares will wear away." The ancients, Pliny among the rest, believed that a delicate nerve ran directly from the "ring-finger" to the heart, and that the ring placed on that finger was very closely connected with the heart. In early Christian marriages the bridegroom put the ring first on the bride's thumb, then on the first finger, then on the second, and, last of all, on the third, saying as he did: "In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost." The thumb and first two fingers represented the Trinity, the next finger was the one the ring was left on, to show that, next to God, a woman's duty was to her husband.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Strength of Spider Silk

It is not generally known that, size for size, a thread of spider silk is decidedly tougher than a bar of steel. An ordinary thread will bear a weight of three grains. This is just about 10 per cent. stronger than a steel thread of the same thickness.

BOUNDARIES OF THE STARS.

Prof. Newcomb's Conclusions Regarding the Limits of Our Universe.

The progress in every department of science is so continuous that the average man has no time to keep pace with it. The alumnus who left college ten years ago may be pretty well assured that his knowledge of electricity, of chemistry, of physiology, of astronomy is already out of date. His only way of keeping informed is to read occasional magazine articles in which the specialist gives the results of the latest investigation. An essay by Prof. Simon Newcomb in the International Monthly Magazine is such an article. It presents the history of the stellar universe which he regards as most probable in view of the latest discoveries in astronomy.

Do the stars extend indefinitely on through space, or is there a limit to the stellar universe? Are they scattered haphazard or grouped after a definite plan? If the universe is finite, how far from its bounds is the earth? These are some of the questions which Prof. Newcomb considers in the light of the most recent investigations of astronomers and geologists.

The professor believes it to be fairly well established now that the stellar universe does not extend indefinitely into space. The stars visible through a powerful telescope he thinks are grouped in the shape of a grindstone with the earth near the center of the system. A few scattered bodies probably are beyond the mass of stars, he says, and there may be other systems far beyond the one to which the earth belongs. The reason for the grindstone theory is found in the fact that the thickness of stars increases toward the Milky way in every direction. In May or June this horizon may be seen skirting the horizon as a sort of belt. This may be allowed to represent the circumference of the grindstone, which is laid flat. Overhead, about the axis of such a grindstone, are the fewest stars. The number increases fairly uniformly toward the horizon. It is evident that this would be the phenomenon seen by an observer near the center of a system of stars grouped in the grindstone formation. There would be comparatively few bodies between him and the flat surface, while there would be many between his station and the circumference.

An indirect argument for the support of this theory is derived by pure mathematics. It may be demonstrated that were stars to be scattered throughout space for an indefinite distance every part of the heavens would blaze at night with the light of the moonday sun. The fact that the sky is a blue black void thus seems to prove the finiteness of the universe.

It is evident that the correctness of the grindstone hypothesis must depend on several assumptions. One is that the light of all the stars reaches the earth—that it is not intercepted by screens of dark star dust. Another assumption is that the stars are distributed fairly uniformly throughout space. Prof. T. J. See, in an essay in the Atlantic Monthly last year, expressed the opinion that the presence of masses of star dust in space makes it impossible to tell anything about the extent of the stellar system. Prof. Newcomb does not believe this objection valid. Were the star dust to interfere seriously in the passage of light he points out that it would probably cut off from our vision the more distant stars and would make their apparent thickness in every direction about the same. He concludes, too, that observation justifies the belief that the distribution of stars is nearly uniform within a radius of from 300 to 400 light-years from the earth, a "light-year" being the distance that light, at the speed of 180,000 miles a second, would travel in a year.

Were the universe of infinite extent, as has been claimed, the heavens would be illumined at night with the light of the sun. It has been found by observation that the light actually appearing in the sky is only one 90-millionth of that intensity. Prof. Newcomb calculates that about this much light would be received on the earth if the extreme bounds of the stellar system lay between 10,000 and 20,000 light-years distant. While he admits that "eminent authorities" differ with him, he believes the weight of evidence favors his view.

The earth, then, in the opinion of this astronomer, lies near the center of a system of millions of stars, grouped in a grindstone formation, with its circumference from 10,000 to 20,000 light-years distant.

Poisoning the System.

It is through the bowels that the body is cleansed of impurities. Constipation keeps these poisons in the system, causing headache, dullness and melancholia at first, then unsightly eruptions and finally serious illness unless a remedy is applied. DeWitt's Little Early Risers prevent this trouble by stimulating the liver and promote easy, healthy action of the bowels. These little pills do not act violently, but by strengthening the bowels enable them to perform their own work. Never gripe or distress.

Needle Located With X Ray Machine.

On Tuesday evening while Mrs. C. D. Grubbs was barefoot in her room she stepped on a No. 4 sewing needle which was in the rug. The needle with eye up entered her heel and 5/8 of an inch of it broke off. On Saturday morning the broken piece was located by the use of W. T. Without the machine there would no doubt have been great difficulty and danger in locating and removing the needle.

Street Fair a Great Success.

Manu Thousands in Attendance—Peace and Quiet Prevailed.

Just as we expected, the street fair was a great big success, netting right a $2,000. It was done this way: Every member of the two orders became personally interested and went to work and kept it up until the doors closed Saturday night.

The orders will hold their third annual fair in August of 1903, but are undecided as to whether it will be a street fair or a stock and agricultural fair with permanent grounds and buildings.

The stock exhibitions were good and the floral hall, with its numerous entries and decorations was a center of attraction for our women.

The fine buggy purchased of Chenault & O'Rear for $150 was drawn by Oscar Forman, of Indian Fields. Number 697 was the winner and was drawn by Miss Mattie Dennis out of a specially prepared box. It is one of Kaufman Buggy Co's best makes. The harness, handsome and extra good, was the make of Joe M. Conner, and cost $25.00.

The orders behaved themselves nicely, were on the alert and would have us say to the good people that the objectionable features were few and another year they hope to improve in letting of privileges and have eliminated every thing not in accord with fine taste. Plates were not as numerous as last year, but were the real attractions of the day. The people generally responded to the request to decorate.

Oriental feature was the crowning of Miss Lela Gibson Queen. It may be all right to play queen, but it looked to much like the real to please us.

The weddings on the midway Friday, Horace Morgan and Miss Logan, of Morehead; Judge Hazelrigg, officiating, and on Saturday Emmet Cord and Miss Sue Thomas, of Judy, Esq. J. W. Henry officiating, were drawing cards. The gentlemen were A. O. U. W. A. nice suit of furniture and other articles for house-keeping were bridal presents.

Young women are made old before their time by the consequences of what are generally described as "female troubles." When disease withdraws a woman from the activities of life, robs her of all social pleasures, and even takes away the desire of living, she has practically reached the saddest condition of old age, when the aged is forced out of life's activities by weakness, and has no desire to live. For in a condition of health, youth clings to life, and loves to have part in life's duties and pleasures. And that condition of health it is the right of every young woman to enjoy. If she has it she should protect it as a priceless treasure. If she has lost it she should use every effort to regain it.

The way in which lost health may be regained and retained is pointed out by Miss Ebbets and Miss Siegel, whose portraits appear above. The means of cure used by these young women are within the reach of every woman. There is no need to endure the backache and headache, the severe pains each month, the weakness, nervousness and general suffering which are a consequence of womanly diseases. All these pains and sufferings are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

A Blessing to Suffering Women.

"I do not wonder that you call your medicine the 'Favorite Prescription,' after the help it has been to me," writes Miss Bertha Ebbets, Treasurer Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, First Presbyterian Church, residing at 1600 East 10th St., Kansas City, Mo. "Was so weak and sick I could hardly raise my head, having constant backache and headache. Two bottles of Dr. Pierce's medicine made me a well woman, and since then it has been my 'Favorite Prescription.' too. Have advised a number of my friends who were suffering to use it, and have been gratified that it has helped all without exception. It does all that is claimed for it and more, too, and is a blessing to suffering women."

Miss Ebbets' statement that "Favorite Prescription" "does all that is claimed for it and more, too," is amply borne out by the statements of thousands of other women who have been cured by this medicine. So many times a sick woman is recommended by a friend to use "Favorite Prescription." She does so hesitatingly because good physicians have told her that she will have to endure her miserable condition as long as she lives. She does not dream of being cured because the doctors have said she cannot be cured. So she begins taking "Favorite Prescription," only hoping to get partial relief from pain and weakness. If only the back wouldn't ache all the time. If she could only be relieved from the constant headache. If she could only be made a little stronger so that she might have some share in life's duties, that is all she asks. And then the first thing she realizes is that "Favorite Prescription" is curing her, and she keeps on until she is cured and is a perfectly well woman. Then, like Miss Ebbets, she advertises the medicine which cured her among her friends, and even puts aside her repugnance to publicity and endeavors, through the press, to show thousands of weak and sick women the way to health. The great advertisements of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription are the women it has cured.

It Cured Me in Three Weeks.

"I had for nearly a year suffered with troubles peculiar to my sex," writes Miss Nettie Siegel, President Young People's Christian Temperance Association, residing at 202 Ralph Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y. "and could find no relief until a friendly neighbor who had been cured by using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription advised me to try it. I had little faith in it at first, but now have all the faith in the world, for it did for me what nothing else ever could; it cured me in three weeks and made life look different to me and I had some desire to live. Am truly grateful and have advised a number of sick, worn out women to use it. I know of several cases that have been cured of distressing female diseases, and feel that I am safe in endorsing it."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It is the best tonic and nerve for weak, run-down women, soothing the nerves, encouraging the appetite and inducing refreshing sleep.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All letters are held as strictly private, and the written confidences of women are guarded by the same strict professional privacy observed by Dr. Pierce and his staff in personal consultations with weak and sick women at the Invalide Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

DR. PIERCE'S COMMON SENSE MEDICAL ADVISER, containing more than a thousand large pages and over 700 illustrations, is sent FREE on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing ONLY. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the cloth-bound volume, or only 21 stamps for the book in paper covers.

A Drunkard's Will.

Not long ago in a New York hotel, a young man addicted to strong drink took his life, and left the following paper, headed, "My last will and testament."

"I leave to society a ruined character."

"I leave to my father and mother as much misery as, in their feeble state they can bear."

"I leave to my brothers and sister the memory of my mispent life."

"I leave to my wife a broken heart, and to my children the memory that their father fills a drunkard's grave and has gone to a drunkard's hell."

And yet, in the face of all this, men will tamper and fool with the accursed stuff.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has decided that the 10 cent tax does not apply to oleomargarine, which takes its yellow color from an admixture of pure butter. Exemption is also made from oleomargarine that is colored with various kinds of vegetable oils, which might be considered constituent parts of butter, such as cotton seed oil. It has been found that the rich cream will impart a yellowish tint to oleo, so that it sells readily. The old law imposed a 2-cent tax on oleo, but the new law lowers this to one fourth of a cent a pound on oleo not artificially colored.

A more humane spirit than we used to see is beginning to appear among the employees of labor. A St. Louis street railway company has adopted the plan of employing its aged men at light work without decreasing their wages. Following the example of the Pennsylvania and Illinois steam railway systems, the Metropolitan Street Railway Company of New York, which employs 15,000 men, has decided to pension those of its employees who have been in its service twenty-five years, or who have reached the age of sixty-five and wish to retire.
